Councilmen Favor Recreation Center For Ocean Beach

Following Appearance of Community Leaders, Council Votes Unanimously

San Diego city council, by a unanimous vote, went on record in favor of a recreation center for the Ocean Beach community, their action being taken Tuesday forenoon at the conclusion of a hearing with civic leaders of this community. Nearly 50 serious-minded men and women from Ocean Beach attended the conference, following which they expressed their satisfaction at the favorable action taken by the conference.

Rev. James F. Roberts, chairman of the community-civic committee, led the large delegation and was in charge of the presentation of this community's case, telling of the imperative need for a recreation center.

The council passed two motions, the first being to refer the proposal to a conference of the city councilmen. Pressing the point, however, Rev. Roberts asked for and obtained from the council an immediate expression of their stand on the Ocean Beach project. Previously the councilmen who spoke, also W. A. Kearns, the city director for recreation in San Diego, and Glenn Rick, city planning consultant, all expressed themselves in favor of the center. Kearns said there has been a dire need for adequate community recreation facilities in Ocean Beach for several years.

Site Not Decided

The final motion of the council did not specify any particular site for the center, but the councilmen did indicate that they would be in favor of constructing the center as soon as possible.

Mayor Harley Knox, in his talk on the proposition, declared that there are two separate recreation improvement propositions for Ocean Beach, one being the recreation center intended primarily for the Ocean Beach community and the other the improvement of the beach for the benefit of all of San Diego. He said that the fact that these are two separate projects should be kept in mind. He said that the council would keep Ocean Beach advised of the progress of the plans for the recreation center.

Besides Rev. Roberts other main speakers for the recreation center, who also spoke in favor of the Santa Monica-Ebers site, were Mrs. Martha McIntosh, principal of the Ocean Beach Elementary school, and Mrs. D. C. Muchmore, Girl Scout leader. Both are members of the community-civic committee. Other members of the committee present were John Loftus, Clarence Swenson, Martin Murphy, Mrs. C. W. Early, Miss Kate Spani and Mrs. Francis Wisdom.

Site Question Threshed Out

The matter of a site for the recreation center was threshed out at a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce at the Log Cabin Monday evening, called especially for that purpose. At least 50 public-spirited men and women were present.

At the conclusion of the discussion, a motion passed favoring the upper site for the recreation center. All present, whether Chamber of Commerce members or not, were asked to vote on the question.

Greeson Tenders Resignation

President Lloyd Greeson called the meeting to order and asked the secretary to read a letter, in which Mr. Greeson tendered his resignation as president of the Chamber of Commerce, a position he has held for several years. He called J. R. Lownes, vice-president, to the chair. After some discussion, in which several speakers urged that his resignation not be accepted, the meeting decided that the resignation would be more properly acted upon at the next regular meeting of the Chamber of Commerce.

Rev. J. F. Roberts was asked to present the plans for the recreation center that had previously been proposed for the upper site. He was assisted in the explanation of the plans by Mrs. D. C. Muchmore and Clarence Swenson.

Ocean Beach Woman Criminally Attacked

A 31-year-old Ocean Beach married woman was the victim of criminal assault while on her way home from work in a San Diego aircraft factory about 2:30 a. m. Tuesday, she reported to the Ocean Beach police station later that morning. She said she had been grabbed by the throat and choked into unconsciousness by a tall man near Chatsworth blvd. and Browning st. and dragged under some trees on the old Bridges estate property where the attack took place. She said she hit him with her lunch box and also with her purse, inflicting a V-shaped cut under his eye.

On recovering consciousness the victim walked home and she and her husband then notified the local police. She was examined and treated at the local station by Dr. John W. Wilhoit, police surgeon. An intensive hunt for the assailant is under way by the officers.

Arrest Pacific Beach Man

Jack Nance, 46, Pacific Beach, was arrested by Officers J. C. Freeman and H. D. Baldwin June 1, reports Acting Sgt. L. G. Chauvaud of the local police station, on a charge of assault with deadly weapon. According to the report Nance and wife had ended a family row with violence, and she accused Nance of smashing the butt of a shotgun on her head. She suffered a lacerated forehead and an injured hip. Nance was overpowered by Henry E. Reed and later told the officers that his wife first had the shotgun and threatened to kill him. The argument started when Nance took the refrigerator out of the house, report the officers, and the fight took place in the yard of the Nance home on Diamond st. Nance admitted he struck his wife but not with the shotgun.

Two other arrests were made during the week. One was of Frank Susan on a charge of entering the room of a hotel on W. Pt. Loma blvd. May 31 and taking $50 in bills belonging to Mary E. Duvall, a bus driver. She discovered the money missing when she returned to her room the next day. Susan was nabbed by Officers Disney and Harshman and has been jailed in the city, Sgt. Chauvaud reports.

The other arrest was of Carlton M. Mills, 46, on a charge of driving a car while drunk. Officers Freeman and Baldwin made the arrest at Ebers and Voltaire sts. Wednesday evening, and found that Mills had an operator's license that had expired in April, 1943.

Cook, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Cook of 1989 Ebers st., has been awarded three Oak Leaf Clusters to his Air Medal for meritorious achievement while taking part in bombing attacks on military and industrial targets in Hitler's Europe, according to word received here by his parents. Sgt. Cook had previously been awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross. He writes that he has now completed 30 missions over continental Europe from his air base in England and but for the fact that his services are now in demand as an instructor he would no doubt be given a furlough home. His missions have been as a ball turret gunner on a Flying Fortress. Cook is a graduate of Pt. Loma High school and was employed by the Rohr aircraft plant before entering the service November 7, 1942.

One of Cook's missions is reported to have been the longest distance raid in Europe, being 2800 miles. On this one, the bomber was in the air for more than 11 hours and of that period Cook was crouched at his post as ball turret gunner for at least 10 hours. When they took him from his post after landing he was unable to straighten his body and legs for a half hour.

Cook also was aboard the Flying Fortress, "Jeanne-D-Arc," when the pilot, Lt. Robert Schimmel, flew back to their English base with one engine missing.

ALARM CLOCK AD BRINGS RESULTS IN A HURRY

A classified ad in the Ocean Beach News last week offering an alarm clock for sale certainly brought results in a hurry, reports H. H. Hartvigsen, former owner of this paper. We had several replies that morning and the woman who bought it walked all the way up the hill from down town in order to get the clock."

New $5000 Unit to Be Added Soon to Door of Hope Home

Construction is expected to start in about a month on a $5,000 new laundry building for the Salvation Army "Door of Hope" home on Bolinas st. Major Clara Flack, superintendent of the local institution, reported this week.

This is one unit of a building and improvement program that will also include construction of two offices and a lobby as an annex to the present main building and the post-war construction of a $50,000 building. The present home was built in 1915 and in spite of a $11,000 hospital unit opened in July 1943, the home has been overcrowded for several years, says Major Flack.

When built in 1915 the first unit had a capacity of only three or four girls and their babies. In the past ten years, she says, the load has increased 300 percent, and even though the present capacity is 25 girls and 10 babies, the present rapid growth of San Diego makes it impossible to continue efficiently without further enlargement, according to Major Flack. This home is the only institution of its kind in southern California south of Los Angeles.

Plans for the proposed $50,000 building have been drawn by Architect Sam W. Hamill, but there is small chance that construction on this larger unit can be started until after the war. Other improvements planned will include the landscaping of the grounds.

The home is located on city-owned property in Collier park in the northeast section of the Ocean Beach community, and is operated under lease by the Salvation Army. Major Flack has been the efficient directing head of the institution since April 1942. She has a staff of eight nurses on full time duty and one case worker on part time.

The hospital unit, opened last July, is built on the east side of home's patio and is reported by medical authorities to be one of the best maternity hospital units in the city. Included in the hospital are several wards, an operating room, a sterilizing room, an isolation room, a doctor's room and a diet pantry, all of them modernly equipped.

Point Loma High School Observes "D" Day Tuesday

One of the most meaningful and thoughtful assemblies at Pt. Loma High school this semester was the observance of "D-Day" on Tuesday, June 6, reports Principal L. L. Bloomenshine. At 9:30 a. m. the entire student body assembled on the lawn near the flagpole where the following program was given:

Pt. Loma choir sang "Come Thou, Almighty King."

Tom Royal, outstanding student speaker, was presented by James Webber, student body commissioner. Tom gave a brief speech for the entire student body on "In God We Trust."

Principal Bloomenshine introduced Rev. J. F. Roberts, Pt. Loma Methodist church, who gave a prayer at the close asking the student body to join with him in "The Lord's Prayer."

Principal Bloomenshine closed the program by asking the audience to join him in the salute to our flag.

The entire student body gave most excellent response in prayer to the military forces.

Employers Asked to Meet for Bond Drive

Merchants Cooperate in Providing Publicity for Fifth War Bond Sales

Merchants and professional men and women and all other employers of labor in the entire Ocean Beach community are asked to meet at 12 noon, Monday, June 12, the opening day of the Fifth War Loan drive, with the object of enrolling their services in the campaign. Place of the meeting had not been definitely decided at the time of going to press, "but we are trying to obtain the Strand theatre for this meeting," Capt. Burritt Mills, local chairman of the campaign, announced Thursday. "At least all can assemble in front of the theatre Monday noon and be informed there and then of the place of meeting," he said.

A preliminary meeting of business men was held Thursday noon to discuss plans for putting on the campaign locally. Called into the meeting by Capt. Mills were Earl Shaw, Harry Masters, Milt Lancaster, Rollin Reed, Marc Strauss, Clyde Tallman, J. R. Lownes, Glen Jones, Lloyd Crocker and Frank F. Swan.

As tentatively decided Thursday, the first move will be the Monday meeting, and secondly a meeting of all the employees, at which the plan is to enroll them in the "Third Army." Establishment of a centrally located headquarters also was discussed.

Page Ads Start This Week

The series of five full page ads, one each week of the campaign, starts this week in the Ocean Beach News. They are being run in response to an earnest request from the government asking the newspapers to enlist the support of local business and professional men and women in making their publication possible. The News will be glad to accept other signatures for the four full pages yet to be run each week if those not in this week will call at this office.

Says Chairman Leroy W. Herron, chairman of the NAEA War Bond committee:

"Newspaper advertising to influence the public and to arouse them to buy war bonds during this campaign is absolutely essential to its success. If you could take it upon yourself the personal responsibility of publishing in your newspaper all or a major part of the war bond copy you will be doing your individual share in helping win the war."

Legion Aids Drive

Commander Dan Moss of the American Legion post in Ocean Beach reported Monday that the Legionnaires here are getting behind the Fifth War Loan drive. He has been notified by Chairman C. J. Turner of the American Legion War Bond committee for Southern California that "I have no doubt that the 40,000 Legionnaires of Southern California will attain their goal of $20,000,000 in war bonds."

Turner also wrote that sales kits for each of the members of the local post would be sent here for their use in pushing the bond sales.

A beach party will follow the meeting and the day's activities will end with a 4 o'clock service at the church.

Ocean Beach Has Two Graduates at U. S. Naval Academy

Ocean Beach had two graduates in the U. S. Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md., this week. As it happens, also, both young men have homes here within a block of each other on Santa Monica ave. They are Ensign James Clyde Masters, Jr., of 4301 Santa Monica and Lt. Walker G. Bennett II of 4393 Santa Monica. The former is a son of Comm. and Mrs. James C. Masters, Sr., and the latter a son of Col. and Mrs. Floyd W. Bennett.

The graduation was an event of Wednesday this week, June 7, at the Naval Academy.

Ensign Masters was a star athlete at Pt. Loma High school, having won the medal for all-around excellence in athletics in 1940. He later attended Boyden's Preparatory school in San Diego. He distinguished himself as a member of Troop 28 of the Boy Scouts, having become an Eagle Scout and having been named as an assistant scoutmaster before he was 14 years old. As a senior at the Naval Academy he was made regimental commander of his division for one semester. His father, who is a commander in the navy, is stationed at the Naval Supply depot in San Diego.

Ensign Masters expects to be given training in the air corps of the navy and to be assigned to the Pensacola.

Like his father, Walker G. Bennett II is now in the U. S. Marine Corps and has graduated with a second lieutenant's commission. His high school attendance has been at three different institutions. He attended Pt. Loma High school in 1938, later attended a high school in the Philippine Islands, where his father was then stationed, and graduated from the Fredericksburg, Va. High school before entering the Naval Academy. He expects to be given further training for the Marine Corps at Jacksonville, Fla., and Quantico, Va. He was 22 on June 1.

His mother, Mrs. Bennett, had the pleasure of seeing her son graduate. On her trip east she also is visiting in Philadelphia, Washington, D. C., and Baltimore.

Col. Bennett, who is quartermaster at the Marine Base in San Diego, and Mrs. Bennett, are living in what was formerly the Cassits home on Santa Monica ave., having moved there last October 1.

Kiwanis Provides Incubator for Door of Hope Home Here

Ocean Beach Kiwanis club this week completed its effort among the members to raise the necessary $150 with which to buy a baby incubator for the Salvation Army "Door of Hope" home on Bolinas st. The machine has been ordered and will be installed in the home as soon as it arrives.

Need for the equipment was demonstrated recently when a premature birth took place at the home and the infant nearly died before the necessary trip to a hospital incubator in town could be made.

Prominent members of the club also have contributed during the past week sufficient furniture and furnishings to equip and make attractive and comfortable the living room on the second floor of the home. They made the request that their names not be made public in the announcement of this worthy effort.

PACIFIC:
Buck Air Power

Nibbling further at Jap air power based in the eastern New Guinea area as a defensive bulwark of the Indies and the Philippines, U. S. aviators continued their strikes against enemy airdromes in the region and U. S. ground forces fought over rough country to set up airfields for them.

As General MacArthur's air and ground forces struck out at eastern New Guinea, navy bombers from a strong task force of aircraft carriers hit at enemy island holdings farther to the north, dotting the roadway to the enemy homeland.

U. S. casualties in the eastern New Guinea area remained light as Doughboys expanded their holdings with support of heavy artillery, tanks and warplanes.

POSTWAR:
Churchill Speaks

Organization of the great powers emerging victorious from the war into a single force to preserve future world peace was outlined by Prime Minister Winston Churchill in a discussion of foreign policy in Britain's house of commons.

To prevent either the planning or conduct of future wars by "restless and ambitious nations," Churchill said the Allied powers intend to set up a world organization equipped with all necessary means for maintaining order.

Touching on the delicate Russian-Polish situation, Churchill declared that Poland's surrender of territory in the east might be countered by acquisition of German land.

SOLID SOUTH:
Threaten Break

Long rumored, southern rebellion against the New Deal's social reform, especially in regard to the advocacy of Negro equality, took tangible shape in Texas, where the regular Democratic organization instructed its presidential electors to cast their vote for the party's nominee in the electoral college only if the national convention:

1. Votes disapproval of efforts to nullify state laws for segregation of white and colored school children;

2. Backs up Texas' opposition to the Supreme court ruling opening Democratic primaries to Negroes;

3. Seats the delegates selected by the regular Texas Democratic party instead of delegates chosen by a rival rump organization, composed of members who broke with the regular party over its instructions to the electors.

Electoral Vote

While calmer minds sweated over working out a compromise between the two factions in Texas, speculation arose as to what might happen if the 23 Texas electors should join eight similarly dissatisfied North Carolina electors in voting against the Democratic candidate in the electoral college, whose vote determines the presidential winner.

Since the 31 Texas and North Carolina representatives in the electoral college, made up of electors chosen by the states, could form a majority for either side, they could swing the election to either a Republican or Democrat, being free to vote as they wished. Or then, again, they might vote for an independent person, in which case neither of the two regular candidates would receive a majority and the presidential election then would be referred to the house of representatives. In the house, the party in the majority would decide the election.

EUROPE:
Back Nazis to Wall

With Fifth army troops on the southern front joined with their comrades on the Anzio beachhead, and with the British slugging through the Liri valley to the east, Allied forces in Italy locked hands for a knock-out punch against the Germans below Rome.

Gen. Clark

As the fighting in Italy came close to a showdown, invasion preparations continued, with thousands of Allied bombers ripping up German defenses and airfields in western Europe, and the Allied command issuing detailed instructions to the underground to report enemy troop movements to U. S. and British soldiers when they land.

Tottering under the combined pressure of Lieut.-Gen. Mark Clark's Fifth army and the British Eighth, the Germans fell slowly back to the southeast of Rome for a bitter defensive fight, while Allied aircraft hampered their movements by a steady bombardment of supply lines and motorized concentrations.

LABOR:
Local Punished

While the CIO United Automobile workers suspended officials of a local union for a strike in the Chrysler plant at Detroit, Mich., the CIO Gas, Coke and Chemical workers sanctioned the walkout of 1,900 members of a local at the Parke, Davis and company drug factory in the same city.

In suspending the local officers for the walkout which resulted from their support of a CIO chauffeurs' union fight with a rival AFL organization, the United Automobile workers said they had violated their contract with the company, the UAW constitution, and their no-strike pledge.

Accusing Parke, Davis and company of a "vicious union busting campaign," the Gas, Coke and Chemical workers supported its local's strike, which halted production of blood plasma, penicillin and smallpox vaccination for military and civilian use. Protesting that the position of the company jeopardized the standing of the union, the local's president defied a War Labor board directive to return to work before resuming negotiations.

FOOD:
Supply Good

A factor in the government's possible restoration of rationing on point-free meats may be the necessity for assuring a more equal distribution of such meats, three federal agencies reporting on the general food situation declared. Meantime, some cuts or better grades of meat may become more difficult to obtain.

Although supplies of canned fruits and juices will continue at low levels for the rest of the year, fresh apples, peaches, pears and cherries will be more plentiful. The situation in canned vegetables can be expected to grow tight. Increases in stocks of margarine, shortening and other edible oils will probably offset declines in butter and lard. Because of record spring production of eggs, need for greater consumption persists.

"Civilian diet is sufficient in calories, proteins, iron and vitamin A, but with little margin . . . in the B vitamin and C vitamin," the agencies reported.

BIG GUNS:

The army has sharply increased its demand for large caliber cannon and ammunition it is announced, giving rise to speculation that military leaders anticipate long and severe fighting after invasion beachheads have been secured.

New plant construction has been approved and factories now on a standby basis will return to full operations, official sources disclose. Ammunition schedules have been stepped up to four or five times previous levels.

MISCELLANY

Grapefruit yield was estimated at 17,539,081 boxes and oranges at 3,354,350 boxes. Total value of both crops was set at $53,469,000 by the exchange official

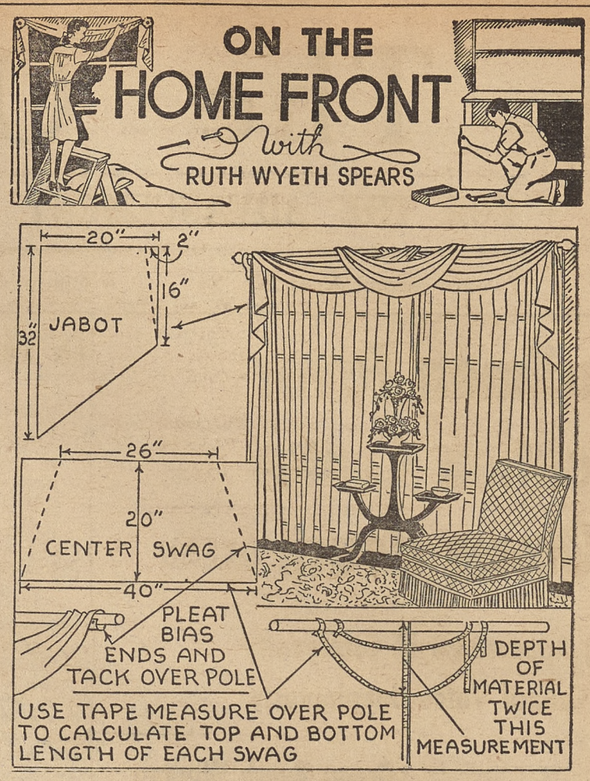
ON THE HOME FRONT

with RUTH WYETH SPEARS



THERE is a shortage of metal curtain rods, yet for two generations we have not seen such elaborate window treatments. The formal swags, cascades and jabots so dear to our grandmothers seem to be exactly right with the Victorian furniture that is gaining in popularity all the time.

Each piece of the draped valance shown here is cut separately. The diagram at the left gives the dimensions of the end jabots. The side swags cross in the middle and a center swag overlaps them. The measurements of this center swag are given here, but these will vary according to the space the swag is to fill. Each swag is cut bias at the ends and pleated and tacked over the pole, as shown at the lower left. The method of taking measurements is shown at the right.

NOTE—This is the third of a series of modern adaptations of period curtain fashions. Formal swag valances mounted on a valance board are illustrated with step-by-step directions in BOOK 1. The less formal type draped in one piece is shown in BOOK 5. Books are 15 cents each. Order directly from:

Sewing machines that are cleaned, oiled and adjusted regularly seldom wear out. The book of directions that comes with the machine can help give a machine long life.

If the iron becomes rough on the bottom, rub vigorously with salt dampened in cold water. Apply it with crushed newspaper, then rub the iron on a clean cloth and it will be much improved.

Since dishes must be done three times a day, why not do it the most efficient way? Stacking the dishes on the right, so the work goes from right to left, means greater efficiency for the right-handed housewife. Of course a left-handed worker would reverse this procedure for quicker work.

The best way to wash walls or woodwork is to begin at the bottom and work to the top. This avoids streaking where the dirty water would run down and prevents a difficult job of removing such streaks.

SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT RUBBER

Maintenance of our synthetic rubber plants after the war as "a rubber insurance policy" is advocated by leading rubber authorities. They hold that the U. S. cannot be adequately prepared at all times to defend its national interest unless it is free from the threat of a rubber shortage, a feeling subscribed to by most thinking Americans.

World capacities for producing natural and synthetic rubber after the war will aggregate nearly 2,800,000 tons yearly, predicts John L. Collyer, president of B. F. Goodrich. This is more than twice as much as the world has ever used in any one year.

CONGRATULATIONS, OCEAN BEACH

Congratulations are in order to the large number of public spirited men and women who attended and took part in the special meeting called by the Chamber of Commerce to discuss the problem of a recreation center for this community.

Differences of opinion were expressed. That is to be expected in a group of that many civic leaders, but only by expression of opinions that differ can all angles of any question be aired. To the credit of the meeting, be it said that by presenting the arguments pro and con regarding the upper site for the recreation center, a somewhat tense atmosphere was cleared and at the close an agreement was reached.

As a result the Ocean Beach folks who attended the city council meeting Tuesday were able to present the united front on the question that the council had asked for.

As we interpret the sentiments expressed at both Monday's meeting and at the meeting with the council, Ocean Beach folks are really serious about their plans for providing a community recreation center and that they have on their intended community projects program not only a recreation center but also the improvement of the beach and of the city property at the foot of Newport ave.

This week's meetings prove that the community spirit without which no city can make real progress is not lacking in Ocean Beach.

LEST WE FORGET

We are in the sixth month of the third year of this war—and it is therefore understandable that some of us on the home front, far from the bloodshed and agony, should grow restive at times, and delude ourselves into thinking that the worst is over. It is understandable, but is it far from commendable, and we certainly can't afford to indulge in such short-sighted complacency.

Lest we forget, Dr. Louis I. Dublin, veteran statistician of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company, reports that American battle casualties in World war II already have exceeded the casualties of World war I. Latest announcements from the war and navy departments show nearly 45,000 are known dead in this war—and this figure, Dr. Dublin warns will rise when deaths among the 72,000 wounded and 42,000 missing are added. In the first world war, about 53,000 of our men lost their lives in action or died of wounds. But in this war now that the big invasion of Europe is under way we should figure that the worst of the fighting as far as the Americans are concerned has only just begun.

That doesn't make pleasant reading. But if we heed the warning, it may save the lives of a great many American boys who will die needlessly if we get careless or restive and fail to give them all-out support. We still have a war to win!

Above everything else this week's invasion of Hitler's fortress of Europe means that Americans must go all out in their efforts to put over the Fifth War Loan Drive.

"TAXATION WITHOUT IRRITATION"

The new streamlined income tax bill enacted by congress, which will relieve 30,000,000 taxpayers of the chore of figuring out their tax returns each year, and which simplifies the procedure for the 20,000,000 who will still be required to file returns, is an undoubted improvement over the complex and cumbersome system it replaces.

It is brash optimism, however, to expect that the new tax bill, no matter how simple it may be, will provide "taxation without irritation," as some Washington officials have predicted. Effective next January 1, the withholding levy against wages and salaries will deduct currently the full tax liability for the 30,000,000 citizens with incomes of less than $5,000 a year, and there will be no complicated forms to haunt them. Even taxpayers in the upper brackets will get some relief, to, in the bookwork and higher mathematics heretofore required of them. But every taxpayer will still have to ante up approximately the same number of dollars — and there's the rub!

Increase Noted in Levies of Property Tax Per Capita

Property tax levies in San Diego county for 1943-44 averaged $34.14 for each of the 407,000 people in the county January 1, 1944, compared with the average levy of $33.32 for each of the 400,000 people in the county January 1, 1943, California Taxpayers' association stated today, making public its study of property tax levies in California counties.

cluded in the levy are the taxes for the county, and the cities, school districts, and special districts in the county. Total property tax levy in the county for 1943-44 was $13,894,506, compared with $13,327,751 for 1942-43.

Throughout the state, the average property tax levy per capita for 1943-44 was $39.12, compared with $40.64 for 1942-43. Total property taxes levied by all the local governments in the state were $313,475,145 for 1943-44, compared with $316,780,015 for 1942-43, the Association stated.

Changes in population, increases or decreases in expenditures, and increases or decreases in aids from the state and federal governments are all parts of the changes in per capita tax levies, the association stated, pointing out that real reduction in tax burden comes only from reduction in public expenditures.

"Rigid economy, including courageous refusal of the many proposals for further increases in salaries of public employees, is the only way the actual burden on the taxpayer can be reduced," the Taxpayers' organization declared. "If the local budgets for 1944-45, now being made up in California communities, are held to wartime necessities, real reductions in property taxes for the coming fiscal year can result."

CITY SCHOOLS ANNOUNCES FREE SUMMER SCHOOL TO BE HELD JUNE 21 TO 28

Summer school for third through twelfth grade will be available without cost to San Diego youngsters, according to announcement made today by W. .L Peterson, director of the summer session. The free classes are possible this year because of state aid.

In addition to the regular junior and senior high school summer classes at San Diego high school special remedial education clinics for third through twelfth grades will be offered under the direction of the child guidance bureau.

The remedial classes, offered for the first time this year, will be held daily from 9 to 12 o'clock from June 21 through June 28 at three centers: Euclid school, 4166 Euclid ave.; Mission Beach school, 818 Santa Barbara Place; Sherman school, 2245 J st. and Florence school, 120 West University ave. Dr. Richmond Barbour, director of child guidance, and Dr. Marion Monroe Cox, consultant will be in charge. Work will be given only to average and superior children in this program.

Guiding Goodwill Industries Local Unit is Dr. Insko

Fifty years ago, a civic-minded man had a hobby. He collected old clothes and gave them to the parishers of a little church in a poorer section of Boston. The man—the late Dr. Edgar Helms—was surprised to learn that the recipients would rather contribute something themselves in the way of services, rather than to receive charity.

From that experiment sprang the 98 Goodwill Industries across this nation, one of which is located in San Diego at 402 Fifth ave. Fifty-five persons, many of whom are physically-handicapped, are employed in what has become known as the "sheltered workshop."

The guiding hand at San Diego's Goodwill is energetic Dr. Myron Insko of Ocean Beach, who founded the local unit on Jan. 1, 1930.

"Since that day, our records show that we have paid in in wages to our employees a total of approximately a half million dollars," Dr. Insko reports. "All of this has come from the rehabilitation of discarded materials donated to us by generous San Diegans."

With the rehabilitation of old clothing, old shoes, furniture, books, etc. has been the rehabilitation of human beings. Under the "sheltered workshop" plan, which all Goodwills use, the physically-handicapped persons are taught trades, with the thought always in mind of enabling them to go into gainful occupations on their own, according to Insko.

Several of the former Goodwill workers today are helping speed the war efforts in war plants and military establishments, the records show.

Insko is proud of the expert shoe repair man who is one of the top men in an army cantonment repair shop, and the two crippled people, one of whom is at the Naval training station, and the other in a war factory. In training at Goodwill are many others, who refuse to let disabilities interfere with their dreams.

"We have graduated many of our workers into outside jobs," Insko says. "Several men who learned the shoe repair business with us now have their own shops. Others are in responsible jobs. All are doing well, despite their handicaps."

One of the most unusual sights at the Goodwill is to watch the expert work of Maxine Sautter, Dr. Insko's sightless secretary, as she takes his dictation swiftly on the braille stenotype. She also learned how to operate the switchboard, and to handle the other usual secretarial and duties. Each day, she is led to and from work by her ever-faithful dog-guide.

"This program is successful because we not only help these handicap folk, but also because we make it possible for others to buy things they need, but we owe all our success to those who give us these articles in the homes of the county," Dr. Insko reports.

UNCLE SAM PLAYS SANTA CLAUS

UNCLE SAM is playing international Santa Claus in a big way, many times greater than in World War I. Aside from the billions Senator Butler says we have donated to our South American cousins, we are slated to give an oil development to Canada that has cost American taxpayers close to $150,000,000. In Iceland we are to pull out the day the war ends and leave airfields and other developments that have cost us many millions. That same thing is true in French and Egyptian Africa. In the Near East we have built airfields, roads and railroads, all to be donated to foreign governments when the war is over. The Santa Claus acts of World War I were but piker stuff as compared with what merry old Uncle Sam is doing this time.

WAR EFFORT AND WORK STOPPAGES

THE MINER WHO DIGS the fuel or the mineral from the earth, the railroad employee who transports war material, the workman in the steel mills and the factories who transforms materials into planes, tanks, guns, ships and all the equipment needed for war, and the producer of food that makes the war effort possible, are all soldiers in the common cause of preserving American freedom. Our armed forces have done, and are doing, their job. Those who produce food have done their full part. The same cannot be said for all of the others who are essential to winning a war, the purpose of which is the preservation of their liberties. It is hard for those who are doing their part to see why those who, for personal gain, would block or retard the war effort, should be coddled and pampered as striking labor has been.

WOMEN GET A NEW NICHE IN INDUSTRY

WE MAY NOT REAP perceptible new ideals from war, but each one in which we engage changes, to a perceptible extent, our social ideas. The result of the present war will give to women a radically enlarged place in industry. The nation's demand for women workers in war industries will mean woman's demands for industrial jobs when war production is over. A survey made by the Family Economic bureau of the Northwestern Life Insurance company, shows two out of each three women who now have jobs in war industries insist on continuing on an industrial payroll when peace comes. Sixty-nine per cent of the married women now holding war jobs, say they want postwar jobs. It all adds up to a need for more factory jobs than we have ever known before, and more competition for men workers.

SMASHING STRIKES AGAINST GOVERNMENT

CALVIN COOLIDGE, as governor of Massachusetts, squashed a police strike in Boston as a strike against the government. That action made Calvin Coolidge President of the United States. In war time what is a strike of coal miners, railroad employees, workers in an airplane factory, shipyard or other plant or industry engaged in production for war purposes? They are strikes against the government at a crucial time. They might be the cause of defeat for our armed forces and be the cause of a heavy loss of soldiers and sailors lives. The man who, by drastic measures if necessary, will put a stop to such strikes in war time will enshrine himself in the hearts of all loyal American citizens.

TAXES CAN REACH A MAXIMUM

THAT THERE IS A POINT at which high income and inheritance taxes can produce a diminishing tax return for the government was demonstrated in the early twenties. In 1922, President Coolidge recommended to congress that the then maximum rate of 46 per cent be reduced to a maximum of 25 per cent. Congress acted on that recommendation. Within three years the total collected had materially increased. The difference between 25 and 46 per cent had gone back into industry to create more jobs, produce more commodities and increase the national income. Fifteen states are asking for a constitutional amendment that would limit the national income tax rate to a maximum of 25 per cent.

A LARGER PERCENTAGE of the boys and girls of rural communities make good in the home town than in the large cities. It is a place of opportunity.

PRODUCE THE TOOLS the farmer must have to plant and harvest his crops. Provide the fertilizer he must have to make them grow. Cut out the bureaucratic red tape handicaps so he can get these onto his farm, and he will produce the crops that will mean no one will be hungry, and that will put a quietus on the black markets. Food is a first essential of war.

Wallace Visit Improves Sino-American Relations

Chinese Officials Build Hopes on Vice President's Trip; True Economic Plight of Country Known Only Recently.

By BAUKHAGE
News Analyst and Commentator.

WNU Service, Union Trust Building
Washington, D. C.

Ever since the day when America as a nation was just a little over eight years old, and the first Yankee merchantman, flying the brand new stars and stripes, was welcomed in Canton harbor, the story of Chinese-American relations has been the story of a long and beautiful friendship.

Recently, however, there has been considerable concern among the friends of China in Washington over the growing strain in those relations which seemed gradually to be reaching a dangerous tension after seven years of war in which China has looked vainly to America for the aid that was not forthcoming.

Now, two things have happened which have considerably eased the strain, and these two nations who need each other so much and between whom such a reservoir of good will, as Willkie called it, has been built up, are both breathing easier.

One thing is the turn of the tide of battle in Burma for which much of the credit may be given to "Uncle Joe" Stilwell as leader of the Chinese-American forces. The other is the visit of Vice President Wallace to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek.

Today, Chinese officials are building high hopes on that visit. They believe that when the vice president returns, he will be able to stimulate an understanding in America of what they consider China's greatest affliction—economic chaos.

Nobody claims that China's troubles are limited to her economic situation. Some observers would put even the war, which is bad enough, second to political dissention which has only been prevented from outbreak by an iron hand. But the thing that the Chinese government thinks would do the most good right now is consumer goods: medical supplies and essential chemicals first; then probably clothing next and on down the line, including all the things one needs to carry on civilized existence in its simplest way.

The Chinese don't quite agree with the way we use inflation to describe their internal situation although printing press money has been put into circulation to the tune of millions of dollars and that Chinese financial resources have been scraped to the bone.

The True Story

One Chinese official said to me:

"If only we could get a bare 3,000 tons of goods a month from the outside, to be sold at prices controlled by the government, it would make all the difference in the world. Twenty big cargo planes making regular trips would be enough to carry it.

"You can buy a bottle of aspirin for 50 cents in this country," he went on. "When we can get any aspirin in China, a single tablet costs that much. But the price is not so important. If we could get aspirin, (that is just an example) even if we had to set a price of, say five cents a tablet, it would serve our purpose. We are willing to stabilize prices, even if they must be at a high level, but we cannot stop inflation unless we have the consumer goods to sell."

For a long time, the seriousness of China's financial situation has been known; the hardships the white collar class, the professional people's suffering; the lack of food and shoes and cartridges (to say nothing of artillery) for the army; but it is only recently that detailed stories have been widely printed and open discussion has taken place here.

There were two reasons for the brake on revealing to America internal conditions in China. In the first place, the Chinese did not wish their situation to be any more widely known than necessary, and for that reason, Chungking clamped down a wall of censorship on all news originating there.

In the second place, Americans familiar with the facts—and this applies to many writers as well as America's government officials friendly in China—did not wish to be in the position of perhaps damaging the morale of a loyal ally and certainly offending her government by circulating stories no matter how true they might be.

Finally, however, the truth came to be more and more widely disseminated, and the papers and magazines were filled with stories from writers returning to America and freed from the bond of censorship. To some degree, the Chinese now realize that too much censorship has hurt them.

Threatened With Collapse

Personally I think this publicity has served to help rather than hurt.

In any case, the time came when something had to be done. China was threatened with collapse right at the moment when bases within her territory were becoming vital in the final assault on Japan.

A courtesy visit from a high official became not only a wise move but a necessity, and there are reasons, not immediately evident on the surface, why Vice President Wallace's trip may do much to alleviate China's difficulties.

In the first place, whatever you may think of the views expressed by Vice President Wallace or how well you think you understand them, the Chinese believe first, that he symbolizes the traditional friendship of America for China; and second, that he understands their problems.

Then there is another vital factor, important from the standpoint of the morale of the Chinese people and their support of the present government, Mr. Wallace is the second highest officer of our government. Face counts high in the Far East. This official visit will give face to the Chungking government.

It is clear that these factors are psychological and the intelligent Chinese, who are exceedingly wise in such matters, realize that fact, and count upon it highly.

They feel, too, (from a more practical standpoint) that the Wallace visit will tend to increase American public interest in China and her troubles and will facilitate the efforts on the part of their diplomats to receive the goods they want.

Hopeful Tinge

That is the reason that almost overnight, the atmosphere surrounding Sino-America contacts in Washington has taken on a more hopeful tinge. And the optimism of the Chinese has been greatly helped by the success of the Chinese troops fighting under General Stilwell and the Chinese offensive moving out of China toward a contact with Stilwell's army.

This military operation too, will be more than a mere military victory, if it is successful. Again, the psychological element is important. Success in Burma means the juncture of the Ledo and Burma roads. There are many miles of road construction to be completed before the two highways are actually carrying heavy traffic over them but, nevertheless, when they are joined, a severed artery will be mended, a wound will be healed. The moment the first allied work trucks begin to thread their way along this highway over an unobstructed route from and to the outside world, it will be as if fresh air were once more reaching lungs strangling for breath.

When the two highways are actually joined, they will soon be in operation, for much American technical engineering skill has been spent on the Burma road within China and its carrying capacity will be greatly increased.

The arrival of the first truck-borne piece of freight and the handclasp of the Generalissimo and Vice President Wallace will be more than a political gesture, it will be a renewal of the friendship which has meant so much to China for more than a century and a half.

How a B-26 Bombing Crew Spends Its Working Hours

Fighting an Air War Means Routine; Men 'Work' About Two Hours a Day

By Ernie Pyle

A B-26 BASE IN ENGLAND.—"My crew" of two officers and three enlisted men have been flying together as team in their B-26 bomber since before leaving America more than a year ago.

Every one of them is now far beyond his allotted number of combat missions.

Every one of them is perfectly willing to go through another complete tour of missions if he can just be home for a month. I believe the same thing is true of almost everybody at this station. And it's a new experience for me, because most of the combat men I've been with before wanted to feel finished forever when they went home.

Ernie Pyle

Every one of "my crew" has the distinguished flying cross and the air medal, with clusters. They have had flak through their plane numerous times, but none of them has ever been hit. They expect it to be rough when the invasion starts, but they're anxious to get it over with.

In the past they have usually flown one mission a day over France, with occasionally two as the tempo of the spring bombings increased. But during the invasion they will probably be flying three and sometimes four missions a day.

They will be in the air before daylight and they will come home from their last mission after dark. They will go for days and maybe weeks in a frenzied routine, eating hurriedly between missions, snatching a few hours of weary sleep at night, and being up and at it again hours before daylight to shuttle back and forth across the Channel. They and thousands of others like them.

Fighting purely an air war—as this one here has been up to now—is in some ways so routine that it is like running a big business.

Usually a B-26 crewman "works" only about two hours a day. He returns to a life that is pretty close to a normal one. There is no ground war to confuse him or disturb him or even inspire him with its horror. His war is highly technical, highly organized, and in a way somewhat academic.

Because of this it is easy to get bored. An air crewman has lots of spare time on his hands. Neither the officers nor the enlisted fliers have any duties whatever other than flying.

When not flying they either loaf around their own huts, writing letters or playing poker or just sitting in front of the fire talking, or else they take leave for a few hours and go to the nearby villages. They can go to dances or sit in the local pubs and talk.

And every two weeks they get two days' leave. That again is something new to us who have been in the Mediterranean. Down there, fliers do get leave to go to rest camps, and even to town once in a while if there is a town, but there's nothing regular or automatic about it. These boys up here get their two days' leave twice a month just like clockwork. They can do anything they want with it.

Most of them go to London. Others go to nearby cities where they have made acquaintances. They go to dances and night clubs and shows. They paint the town and blow off steam as any active man who lives dangerously must do now and then. They make friends among the British people, and they look up these same friends on the next trip to town.

They do a thousand and one things on their leave, and it does them good. Also, it gradually creates an understanding between the two peoples that the other is all right in his own peculiar way.

After a certain number of missions a crew is usually given two weeks' leave. Most of them spend it traveling. Our fliers often tour Scotland on these leaves. It's amazing the number of men who have been to Edinburgh and who love the place. They have visited Wales and North Ireland and the rugged southwestern coast, and they know the Midlands and the little towns of England.

These two-week leaves don't substitute in the fliers' mind for a trip back to America. That's all they live for. That's what they talk about most of the time.

A goal is what anyone overseas needs—a definite time limit to shoot for. Naturally it isn't possible right at this moment to send many people home, and the fliers appreciate and accept that fact. But once the invasion is made and the first period of furious intensity has passed, our veteran fliers hope to start going home in greater numbers.

Lieut. Bill Collins, who goes by the name of Chief, is what is known as a "hot pilot."

He used to be a fighter pilot, and he handles his Marauder bomber as though it were a fighter. He is daring, and everybody calls him a "character," but his crew has a fanatical faith in him.

Chief is addicted to violent evasive action when they're in flak, and the boys like that because it makes them harder to hit. They've had flak through the plane and within a foot of them, but none of them has been wounded.

When they finished their allotted number of missions—which used to give them an automatic trip to America, but doesn't any more—Chief buzzed the home field in celebration of their achievement.

He got that old B-26 wound up in a steep glide, came booming down at the runway, leveled off a foot above the ground and went screaming across the field at 250 miles an hour—only a foot above the ground all the way. And at the same time he had to shoot out all the red flares he had in the plane. They say it looked like a Christmas tree flying down the runway.

Chief used to be a clerk with the Aetna Life Insurance company back in his home town of Hartford, Conn. He is 25 now and doesn't know whether he will go back to the insurance job or not after the war. He says it depends on how much they offer him.

Lieut. Jack Arnold is the one they call Red Dog. He is only 22, although he seems much older to me. He enlisted in the army almost four years ago, when he was just out of high school. He was an infantryman for a year and a half before he finally went to bombardier school and got wings for his chest and bars for his shoulders.

He figures that as a bombardier he has killed thousands of Germans, and he thinks it is an excellent profession. He says the finest bombing experience he has ever had was when they missed the target one day and quite accidentally hit a barracks full of German troops and killed many of them.

Red Dog is friendly and gay and yet he is a fundamentally serious man who takes the war to heart. The enlisted men of his crew say that he isn't afraid of anything, and that the same is true of Chief Collins. They are a cool pair, yet both are as hospitable and friendly as you could imagine.

The plane's engineer-gunner is Sgt. Eugene Gaines of New Orleans. He is distinct from the rest because he married a British girl last December.

They have a little apartment in a town eight miles from the field. Every evening Gaines rides his bicycle home, stays till about midnight, then rides back to the airdrome. For you never know when you may be routed out at 2 a. m. on an early mission, and you must be on hand.

It takes him about 45 minutes to ride the eight miles, and he has made the round trip nightly all winter, in the blackout and through indescribable storms. Such is the course of love.

Gaines is a quiet and sincere young man of 24. He was a carpenter before the war, and he figures that will be a pretty good trade to stick to after the war. But if a depression does come he has an ace in the hole. He has a farm at Pearl River, La., and he figures that with a farm in the background you can always be safe and independent.

Gaines wears a plain wedding ring on his left hand. I've noticed that a lot of the married soldiers over here wear wedding rings.

Crewmen Include Student, 'Cowboy From Arizona'

The radioman-gunner is Sgt. John Siebert of Charlestown, Mass. He learned to fly before the war, although he is only 23 now. He had about 800 hours in the air as pilot. Yet because of one defective eye he couldn't get into cadet school.

He had two years at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and he hopes to go back and finish when the war is over.

Sgt. Kermit Pruitt, whom I spoke of the other day, is the tail gunner in "my crew." He's an old cowboy from Arizona.

Pruitt is the talking kind. He talks and sings on the slightest provocation. He likes old cowboy songs. They say that every once in a while he will start singing some cowboy songs over the interphone while they're actually on a bomb run.

Remove Wax

If candle wax dripped on the tablecloth, use a dull knife, a warm iron and cleansing tissues to help remove it. First scrape off as much of the hard wax as possible. Then, place the stain between cleansing tissues or paper towels, and press with a warm iron, changing the paper as it becomes soiled. Finally, sponge with a grease solvent. If color still remains, sponge with a liquid made up of denatured alcohol and water in equal parts.

THE RED CROSS IN OCEAN BEACH

By ONA E. PITCOCK

Camp and hospital want to thank all who brought in custard cups and metal salt shakers. The hospital was grateful to get them and they were so badly needed. This week we want books and especially funny books. You can buy them. It would be nice if after your children read them you would send them to Red Cross. It helps the boys to get a laugh out of life and after what they have gone through they certainly need a laugh.

Mrs. Weaver and Mrs. McElwee made two more throw robes which were given to two men suffering with rheumatism. As sick as they are they ask that thanks be given to the women who made them. It takes so little to bring sunshine into the lives of these men who have given so much. If you would walk through just one ward in the hospital you would vow to help in every way you possibly could. Go down to the blood center, call B-5639 and see what is needed and what you can do to help. I know you can give citrus fruit and it is badly needed. Every Tuesday is cookie day and how those boys enjoy them! They look forward to Tuesdays.

Mrs. H. B. Brewer and her ladies, Mrs. Walsh, Mrs. Bascom, Mrs. Burket, Mrs. Grims, Mrs. Metlock and others, brought in attractive layettes. These were sent into the Red Cross this week.

As the war goes on we are going to have to ask more and more from the homes. Save all woolen and rayon material as these are reclaimed by the salvage department.

We have slippers cut and ready to sew; also material for jeep robes.

The ladies working through the Center made 33 altar clothes within the last two weeks. If you have table linen or material that will make altar clothes, please call B-5639

EIGHT GRASS FIRES REPORTED DURING PAST WEEK IN OCEAN BEACH

Capt. J. F. Kresser of the local fire department reports about eight grass fires here during the past week, keeping his crew unusually busy. Thus far there has been no great property loss, but the captain urges that all householders having on their property the dry grass, especially the wild oats which is highly inflammable when dry, clean away such grass at least five or six feet from buildings and fences.

He also recommends that passers-by avoid throwing cigarets into the wild oats and that parents use extra care in preventing their children from playing with matches. Most of the grass fires here have been due to one or the other of these causes, he said Thursday.

FORMER LOCAL RESIDENT DIES IN ALMO, CALIF.

Mrs. Catherine P. Clegg, a former resident of Ocean Beach, at 4420 Santa Monica, died at Almo, Calif., May 31, according to word received by friends here this week. She had gone to Almo to be near her husband, M. P. Clegg, who is a construction engineer for the Southern Pacific railway. His work recently has been out of the San Francisco office.

Mr. and Mrs. Clegg also had resided in Mission Beach for several years. They still own their home on Santa Monica ave. here, in which they lived for about a year.

What's Buzzin'

By CHERIE

Crime doesn't pay—

If you're curious to know how a jail-house looks from "behind the bars" without robbing a bank—ask Earl Shaw. Earl made a tour of the jail with Auxiliary police, and although business wasn't too rushing while he was there, he says he's more convinced than ever that crime doesn't pay!

Those ads showing pictures of luscious strawberry shortcake like "mother used to make" are slowly driving us mad! We understand the shortage of strawberries has been due in a roundabout way to the high cost of picking. But that doesn't help us one bit, and are we drooling?

Our good friends—

The Lloyd Greesons spent a few days vacation in Los Angeles and Hollywood. . . . Dorothy Schafer of Dorothy's Beauty Salon is planning on leaving us soon. Dorothy's "high hair-do's" are extremely popular around the beach, and we're really going to miss her. . . . Blanche Cameron is looking for a good collie dog. Do you know of a pooch that needs a good home? . . . Chris Engelhardt had a few days vacation from his duties at Consolidated. . . . Gene Henderson of Ocean Beach Transfer, and Tony Matevich of Tony's are off for a three weeks vacation (with a little business on the side) to Chicago and New York and parts east! At least that's the way we heerd it!) . . . Mr. and Mrs. Harry Polan are guests of the Samuel Petchers, and are among those searching for an apartment, house or other form of abode. The line forms to the right, folks!

Passing poem for the day—

JUST RELAX

You'll find when things seem to annoy
And troubles multiply
That all these things will disappear
If just this plan you'll try:
When things outside look blue and seem
To offer knocks and whacks,
Just cease to think of earthly powers;
Get very still: relax!

Relax your mind from old beliefs
That aught can give you harm.
Cease to believe that men or things
Can cause distress, alarm.
If you are one of those who hold
The world upon their backs,
Be done with such audacity!
Just change your thought: relax!

We are pleased to advise that a great number of our women have received their service ribbon for 500 or more hours.

Our regular local monthly meeting will be held on June 12, Assembly of God church, corner of Cape May and Ebers, at 1:30 p. m. May we urge all who can attend to do so in order that they may receive various data for distribution

Also at this meeting our guest speaker will be our well-known principal, Mrs. Martha MacIntosh, who will speak briefly on the recreation activities as planned by the board of education for Ocean Beach, the theme of our meeting being "Building Through Play."

A number of jig-saw puzzles have been turned in to Mrs. Leadbeater, all individually gift wrapped, and will be sent, together with other little gifts that have been coming in from time to time, to the boys at the hospital. If you have a jig-saw puzzle that you no longer have use for, please turn it in to us, as the boys at the hospital can spend a number of pleasant hours working them out.

May I repeat again about the cross-word puzzles that can be clipped from your newspaper, pasted on a piece of cardboard (with the answer on the reverse side). These also are greatly appreciated by the boys at the hospital. Bring them to our meeting next Monday.

Methodist Church To Burn Mortgage In Service Sunday

The Pt. Loma Methodist church is having another glorious day in the history of the church this coming Sunday, an impressive service having been arranged for the burning of the mortgage, Rev. James F. Roberts, pastor, announced today.

Dr. James L. Lyons, district superintendent of the Southern California - Arizona Conference, will officiate at the ceremony. He also will preach the sermon, his subject to be "God in the Church."

An old-fashioned after-church picnic dinner will be held following the morning service.

Rev. Roberts announces that everyone is cordially invited to attend the service and to share in the picnic dinner.

"Bring all the family and sufficient food, as well as table service," he says. "Come and chat with old friends and meet new friends. An inspiring and impressive program has been arranged."

In August, 1929, the present building site was chosen and purchased with the gift of $2000 from Miss Hannah McMeans. Rev. H. A. McPheeters, pastor, together with a small group of people, organized and incorporated as the Pt. Loma Methodist Episcopal church. On September 8, 1929, the cornerstone of the present building was laid. The trustees were Henry Holt, Irving Claspill, Olin Gillespie, Robert Upham, Albert G. Upham, Harry P. Sweet and Claude Cole.

The Community Congregational church asked permission to join the Methodist church. This petition was accepted and approved and the Congregational then united with the Pt. Loma Methodist church. This unification helped the church to grow in membership, especially in the church school.

During these years succeeding Rev. McPheeters the church has had as pastors the Rev. Myron Insko, now superintendent of the Good Will Industries of San Diego, and the Rev. James Hughes, former pastor at La Mesa, now a chaplain in the U. S. Army, stationed in Macon, Ga., and Rev. Robert M. Homiston, now a chaplain in Anchorage, Alaska.

Rev. James F. Roberts is now pastor. He was invited to the church in March, 1943. Rev. Roberts built the new church at Rolando Village.

The church is continuing to grow in membership and a very extensive program is being planned for the coming year.

This last year the church raised over $3000 to clear the indebtedness. The young married adults took the lead in this work. No formal campaign was made. Only by gifts and donations and careful budgeting was the raising of the mortgage possible. This has been a year of great achievement in the church, reports the pastor.

U. S. Must Retain Superior Power in Air, Says Speaker

Superior air power in the United States will be the best insurance for the maintenance of peace in the years to come. In fact, we must have it if we are to possess adequate protection against the misuse of air power by unscrupulous nations. Should we allow ourselves to become weak in the air, we in this country will be wide open to attack.

Such was the gist of the conclusions expressed by John Avery of the public relations department of the Consolidated Vultee Aircraft Corp. of San Diego in a talk before the Tuesday night meeting of the Kiwanis club. He emphasized that never again can we take the chance of assembling air power after a war has started as has, fortunately for us, been possible in this war.

Planes to be built in the future are going to carry tremendous potentialities for destruction, he warned.

Predicting great improvements in plane construction in the near future, he declared that both the helicopter and the flying automobile are going to be successful, and that these are only a part of the story of what is going on in the research laboratories of Convair here in San Diego under the direction of Geo. Stout, noted Convair "imagineer."

Speaking of the larger planes, he predicted that the new P-29 being built by Convair is going to be the heavy plane of the future. Convair also is at work on "super duper" planes that are several times as large as the B-24 Liberator, he said.

The speaker was introduced by I. J. Claspill, Mission Beach merchant, a charter member of the Ocean Beach club.

Featuring the program preliminaries was the observance by the club of its 16th birthday anniversary, a birthday cake being the center of attraction and of the dessert consumption.

Taking cognizance of Tuesday being "D" day, the club members listened with bowed heads while President Roosevelt broadcast his invasion day prayer over the radio.

Dr. Alfred Sand reported on the success of the hearing for an Ocean Beach community recreation center held with the city council Tuesday forenoon.

Clarence Swenson reported that the Dana Junior high school "play" day, for which the club provided the refreshments, was an outstanding success, stating that 340 sixth grade graduates of the elementary schools had been given an hour's play session and had been taken on a tour through the Dana school plant.

Visitors at Tuesday's Kiwanis meeting were Harry Masters, Safeway store manager, a guest of H. H. Hartvigsen, and Frank Harmon, LaJolla club member, who is a past Kiwanis district lieutenant governor.

Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Dunson, 2111 Cable st., returned home Friday from a sojourn of about two months at Idyllwild in the San Jacinto mountains. The trip was made for the benefit of Mr. Dunson's health.

QUEENS DIE PROUDLY

by W. L. White

©. WHITE W.N.U. FEATURES

THE STORY THUS FAR: Lieut. Col. Frank Kurtz, pilot of a Flying Fortress, tells of that fatal day when the Japs struck in the Philippines. Eight of his men were killed while fleeing for shelter, and Old 99, with many other Forts, was demolished on the ground. After escaping to Australia, what is left of their squadron flies to Java, where they go on many missions over the Philippines and the Java sea. Java is invaded and becomes untenable. The Dutch general grants permission for U. S. fliers to evacuate to Australia, if they will first strafe Jap landing barges, which is done. They leave for Australia in an overcrowded Fortress, reach Broome airfield, circle, and come in.

CHAPTER XX

"Presently the old sheep-rancher who took care of this shack and also ran the general store strolled over, and we began to talk.

" 'Had any trouble around here?' I asked him.

" 'No,' he said. 'Jap planes come over once in a while. Over here, sometimes over Wyndham and Port Hedland too, they say.'

" 'What do you mean, once in a while?'

" 'The last one was just last night, since you mention it,' he said. 'Came over very high, early in the morning.'

"So at breakfast I mentioned it to the officer in charge of the field (a new man, just out from the States). 'Did you know, sir, the Japs had a recco plane over last night?' And went on to say that we had quite a bit of stuff here, and while of course the crews were terribly tired, maybe it should be moved out.

"He listened, and because I was on edge, his hesitation somehow annoyed me. But he finally said maybe I had a point there. And thinking about it, he finished his breakfast. I was glad when we got out of there after breakfast for Melbourne."

"We worked most of the night on the brakes, and then went to sleep in that hangar shack. I slept fitfully—woke at five, to get an early start. It didn't seem healthy to me or to any of the rest of us. After a makeshift mess—hot beans and coffee plus field rations—we went out to the ship at six and stood by.

"Skiles had asked the officer in charge when he could take off. But he gave Skiles to understand we were evacuees just like the others. When we were given our passenger list, we could go.

"So we stood around the plane from six o'clock until 9:10, waiting for that list and those orders. At this minute Sergeant Britt happened to look up and hollered: 'Make a run for it, fellows—here come some Zeros!' Five of us who were standing back of the plane dropped into a hole about fifty feet away.

"One Zero peeled off and strafed the Fortress with incendiaries. It caught fire immediately, then the Zero went on down and strafed a B-24, setting it afire. Then it turned and, coming in directly over our hole from the rear, strafed them again. It repeated this six times, also firing a 20-millimeter cannon at us, which caved in our hole and covered us with dirt.

"When Sergeant Britt first hollered out, a big B-24 loaded with twenty-six people had just cleared the runway. When the Zeros hit, it was out over the ocean headed for Perth. It had hardly had time to pull its wheels up—and there was no room in there for them to swing a gun in their own defense—when a Zero caught up with it and dropped it in the sea.

"Two sergeants managed to get out. They swam for thirty-two hours, one of them giving up in sight of shore. The other told us what it had been like inside there when those bullets came smashing through that packed crowd, and a few seconds later when those dying and wounded were all struggling not to drown as the water came in.

"That day the Japs got another B-24 on the ground (it had been the one General Brett himself used), three Forts, a DC-2 and a DC-3, a Lockheed—but the worst were the nine Dutch flying boats they caught out in the harbor. About forty or fifty people were killed on them, mostly women and children.

"I saw one Dutchman swim ashore dragging his wife by the hair. The whole lower half of her face had been blown away, and she was dead. I saw another woman standing on the wing of one of the planes which was burning. She had a child in her arms, and was ready to jump and swim ashore, when a cannon shot hit her in the back and broke her into halves. They both fell forward into the water, but the arms on the top half which held the child never let go of it.

"The men who were left were almost crazy with rage. One Zero was shot down by a Dutchman who stood in front of the hangar holding a .30-caliber machine gun across his arm. The gun got so hot it scorched right into his flesh, but he never noticed it. It turned out that Broome's anti-aircraft defense consisted of just this one .30-caliber gun. The Japs did the whole job in thirty minutes—didn't leave a thing.

"Finally the officer in charge told us: 'We expect planes in between now and midnight, but we don't know how many. We're compiling a priority list, but if your name isn't called by two o'clock, I advise you to get out of here quick, and the best way you can, even if you have to walk—and it's a long walk.'

"He turned out to be right. I fooled around until 2:30 and then, when my name hadn't been called, nine of us decided we'd string along with a civilian contractor who'd offered us a lift. He had thirty men and five Ford trucks, and said he was headed south down the coast for the nearest town, called Port Hedland, two hundred miles away. The Army had some emergency rations hidden in the woods, so we helped ourselves to enough of those to keep us on the trip.

"Then I began to find out about Australia. Those guys are like our Westerners—pioneer types, except bigger. When we got twenty miles out of Broome the road ended entirely. After that—nothing at all. We had to push those trucks through sand, and make long detours around salt-water marshes. Even our drinking water had to be carried in the trucks. They talked about passing three ranches. We did, and I discovered they were the only three houses between Broome and Port Hedland. A million acres is nothing to an Australian. The country looks like West Texas, and is covered thinly with what they call gum trees. They're like eucalyptus in the States. The only sign of life was kangaroos—we'd see half a dozen a day. The little ones are called wallabies and the others are big blues. They hunch low and run through the scrubby gum trees. I got tired living out of cans, so I borrowed a gun and shot a big blue, and the Aussies showed me how to eat it. You throw away all but the tail, which you make soup of, and it tastes like thick chicken broth.

The only sign of life was kangaroos. We'd see half a dozen a day.

"Finally I got to Melbourne, where the Air Force was gathering again—and found they had me down as a deserter, but it wasn't any trouble getting that explained."

"I got out of Java by boat," said the Gunner. "They loaded us on a train at Jockstrap and took us to some town whose name I never did learn, where a Dutch freighter was waiting to take out fifteen hundred of us. They told us we were bound for Perth, a town in Southwest Australia—about the same location and size as San Diego in the States. Alongside us at the dock was a troopship of Aussies from Singapore. Before that they'd been in Egypt—hadn't been home for years. Their boat was bound for Adelaide, way round on the other side of Australia—same location as Miami. But lots of them lived in Perth. When they heard we were going there, they all skipped ship to come aboard with us. We divided our food and lent them our mess kits. They'd lost everything at Singapore. They probably caught hell for it, but they didn't give a damn.

"The first day out we sighted a Jap plane, but it stayed up for a while, watching us. We had stuck machine guns in the belaying-pin holes, and kept the soldiers hidden below decks so they wouldn't know we were carrying troops. Our gunners were hidden, too. But when this Jap started down to strafe, one of our gunners gave the show away by opening fire too soon—otherwise we would have got him.

"We zigzagged for five days, and then at Perth were loaded into a troop train for Melbourne. I was in the coach next the engine, and the Australians couldn't do too much for us. The engineer drew a can of hot water from his boiler and made us some tea out of his strictly rationed supply, apologizing because it wasn't stronger.

"I guess I was about the last one of us to arrive."

"Not by a couple of weeks you weren't," said Harry Schrieber, the navigator, indignantly. "Because what about me?"

"We weren't worried about you, Harry," said Frank with a grin. "We thought you were dead. Way back in the Philippines, when Jack Adams' plane didn't come back to Del Monte Field from that mission. We had given you up months ago. What had you been doing, anyway?"

"Trying to get out of the damned Philippines," said Harry. "And I didn't manage it until the day before General MacArthur did—the sixteenth of March I think it was."

"Harry was the last man to come," said Frank, "and now that the gang was together we could start doing business. You see Lieutenant General Brett, who had been commanding the United Nations Air Force under British General Wavell, who was supreme commander, needed a plane to take him around the war zone. His B-24 had been lost at Broome, remember. Colonel Eubank recommended me to General Brett as his personal pilot and senior air aide, and I selected the crew. Of course when it came to picking the plane itself, the General ordered a D, because all the E's with tail guns were needed for combat and he wanted those planes saved for the boys who would be going out on missions.

"But when it came to which D we would pick, it had to be the Swoose, because there was no other left. Every plane, even of the same model, handles a little differently. I'd flown our D's out from the States, through the Philippines and Java, and I've always felt the old Swoose was just a few miles faster and answered the controls a little more smoothly than the others.

"So now, as pilot and crew of the commanding Air Force General's plane, we in the Swoose were making weekly trips into the war zone from Headquarters far down in Melbourne, up to Darwin and Port Moresby, which were then far-flung outposts on the battle line. The General would average sixty hours a month in the air—thirty of them at least in this combat zone. To get him in and out of it, the Swoose often hit 150 air hours per month.

"At Moresby it was never safe to leave the Swoose on the ground by day. We'd sneak in at night, leave the General, and be off back to Townsville by dawn, coming in to pick him up again the next night. Sometimes the General would just have time to scramble aboard while we cleared the field as the alarm sounded. He was bound he wouldn't lose the Swoose.

"We now began to get a peek out over the top at the broad picture of this Far Eastern war. There were differences over strategy, but it was never Australians versus Americans. The cleavage was ground-minded versus air-minded thinking. The Australian air generals saw eye to eye with our American air leaders. Likewise the infantry generals of both armies thought alike.

"And there was much to the infantry side of the argument. After Java fell, Australian civilians were panicky. Thousands of Australian boys had gone out to die in Africa and Singapore. Now the danger had suddenly rolled down on the Homeland. They wanted all the troops they could get right down there in that lower right-hand (southeast) corner of their continent, where ninety per cent of its population lives.

"Not in New Guinea, or Tulagi, or Guadalcanal, or even in Darwin, which, although on their own continent, is to the average Australian as remote as the Aleutians seem to New Yorkers. They think of Darwin as a tiny outpost separated from them by thousands of miles of impassable desert. They wanted the soldiers near the great cities of Sydney and Melbourne, where they could hear the marching and the military bands.

"This was also sound infantry strategy. The only populous parts of Australia are down in this southeast corner. We didn't yet have many battalions, supply problems were enormous, so our infantry generals agreed with theirs and with their civil leaders. They wanted to keep the army near valuable objectives, not scatter it out across seas and jungle islands, where supply problems would become formidable.

"But we of the Air Forces (both Australian and American) felt that to defend this continent we must build our fighter fields not in Australia itself, but on the outlying islands.

"We'd defended Java by pounding the Japs from Borneo. The Japs had not dared send their transports and landing barges through until they'd taken our advance bases and held air control over the Java Sea.

"The Australian Air Force was as anxious to move into this outlying island chain as we were. Early in April they'd wanted to seize Lae on New Guinea, before the Japs had had time to dig in on its north coast. At that time the Japs had only about four hundred men in the area, and it would have been easy.

"But we lacked the men and the ships—the Japs pressed on and presently took Tulagi in the Solomons threatening our supply lines home.

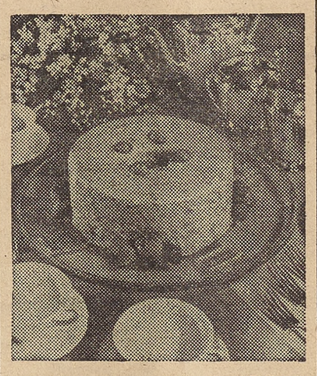
Wedding Bells Bring Out Brides, Beauty and Gayety



Bride's Shower Cake is a delicate angel food frosted prettily with fresh strawberry icing, garnished with whole berries.

Here comes the bride! There's nothing so rare as a day in June, nothing so glamorous as a wedding. Even in these days of furlough brides, quick-as-a-wink weddings, everything is made as nice as possible for this is the happiest day of her life.

Weddings should have beauty and gayety, even when purses are slim, for when the boys are doing their jobs in the far corners of the earth and the girls are left behind, they should have the one thing that keeps them going—a bundle of happy memories tied with a white satin bow.

So let the linens for the table be white and fresh smelling, the silver polished and gleaming. Take out your best china, yes, the kind that you use only for "best" because that's what a wedding is! Though the food be simple as it must necessarily be in these days of rationing and shortages, cook it well and serve it handsomely.

Save Used Fats!

Three kinds of repast are usually used for weddings. The first, a shower, precedes the wedding, and should be light and very simple:

Bride's Shower Menu.

Molded Fruit Salad.
Tiny Cream Cheese Brown Bread Sandwiches
Tiny Ham Sandwiches
Bride's Shower Cake
Coffee

Molded Fruit Salad.
(Serves 6 to 8)

1 tablespoon gelatin
2 tablespoons cold water
½ cup boiling water
¼ cup lemon juice
2 tablespoons sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
½ cup orange segments
½ cup seedless grapes
½ cup red cherries
¼ cup black cherries

Soak gelatin in cold water and dissolve in hot water. Add lemon juice, sugar and salt. When mixture begins to harden, fold in fruit. Pour into mold and chill. Serve on lettuce with salad dressing into which whipped cream or chilled evaporated milk has been added.

Bride's Shower Cake.

1½ cups egg whites (12 whites)
¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cream of tartar
1½ cups sugar
1 cup sifted cake flour
¼ teaspoon almond extract
¼ teaspoon vanilla

Place egg whites into large bowl, sprinkle salt and cream of tartar over them and mix together with several strokes of flat wire whisk. Sift sugar. Sift flour once, measure, add ½ of sugar and sift together 4 more times. Beat egg whites with whisk, using slow, gentle motion that keeps whisk beneath surface. Continue beating until whisk leaves faint line when drawn across surface of egg whites. Add remaining sugar gradually, beating as before, until texture is fine and even and mixture begins to form slightly rounded surfaces when whisk is released. Do not overbeat. Add the flavoring. Remove whisk. Sift flour gradually over surface and fold in slowly and gently with a spoon, folding towards center of bowl and rotating both bowl and spoon. Keep spoon beneath surface of batter and fold until mixture is smooth (2 minutes). Turn into large (4 quart) ungreased tube pan. Bake in a slow (300-degree) oven 30 minutes; then increase heat slightly (325 degrees) and continue baking 40 minutes longer. Remove from oven and invert pan on rack for at least 1 hour or until cold. Remove from pan. Let stand 12 hours or longer before cutting. Ice top and sides with

The Bride's Day: She's the center of attraction. Let everything work toward that end.

Flowers and linens for wedding repast are white. When there is a wedding cake let it be the primary decoration—in the center of the table.

For the family sit-down breakfast, the bride and groom sit together at the head of the table.

Strawberry Icing.
4 cups sifted confectioners' sugar
Dash of salt
¼ cup fresh, crushed strawberries
2 teaspoons lemon juice (about)

Add sugar and salt to crushed fruit. Mix well. Then add lemon juice until of consistency to spread thinly on cake.

Buffet Breakfast.

Minted Grapefruit Juice
Chicken Pot Pie
Olives Celery Curls Sweet Pickles
Finger Rolls
Wedding Cake Ice Cream
Coffee

A wedding breakfast is called breakfast no matter what time of day it is served. The simplest method of serving is from a well set buffet.

Chicken Pot Pie.
(Serves 4)

2½ tablespoons quick-cooking tapioca
¼ teaspoon salt
Dash of pepper
Dash of paprika
2 cups cooked, diced chicken
1¼ cups milk or chicken stock
2 tablespoons melted butter
6 to 8 unbaked baking powder biscuits

Combine tapioca with remaining ingredients in order given. Turn into greased casserole and bake in hot oven (425 degrees), stirring twice during first 10 minutes of baking. Place biscuits on top of chicken mixture, return to oven and bake 12 to 15 minutes longer until biscuits are browned.

Light Reception.

Chicken Sandwiches
Lettuce Sandwiches
Salted Nuts
Wedding Cake Coffee or Punch

Wedding Cake.

1½ cups butter or other shortening
3 cups sugar
6 cups cake flour
3 tablespoons baking powder
1½ teaspoons salt
2 cups milk
½ teaspoon vanilla extract
1 teaspoon almond extract
9 egg whites

Thoroughly cream sugar and shortening. Sift together flour, baking powder and salt 3 times. Add alternately with milk, vanilla and almond extract, beating after each addition. Beat egg whites stiff but not dry and fold in. Place batter in 3 round, paper-lined tins, 10½, 8½ and 6 inches in diameter. Bake in a moderate (375-degree) oven 25 to 30 minutes. Cool and put together with frosting. Frost cake at once.

A wedding breakfast or supper to satisfy the immediate family may consist of chicken pot-pie served in a shining casserole.

Save Used Fats!

Ornamental Butter Frosting.

¼ cup butter
10 cups sifted confectioners' sugar
¼ cup cream
4 unbeaten egg whites
3 teaspoons vanilla extract
½ teaspoon salt

Cream butter, add 4 cups sugar gradually, blending after each addition. Add alternately remaining sugar, cream and egg whites, one at a time, beating well after each addition. Add vanilla and salt. Spread frosting over top of two lower layers; place 3 tiers together and frost entire cake. With a pastry tube, use remaining frosting for decorations and rosettes.

Polite Storks

American storks (wood ibis) are efficient and polite. When a flock descends on a shallow pond, these birds do a sort of dance to rile the water and force tadpoles and small fish to the surface. As these rise to the top, they are killed by the nearest birds. But only when enough food is floating on the water for the entire flock do the birds begin to feast.

Only 14 states employ political party symbols on their ballots, six using the rooster and eight the star for the Democratic candidates, and six the elephant and eight the eagle for the Republican candidates, says Collier's. Nor are all ballots marked in the same way, as in several Southern states the voter, instead of putting a cross beside the names of the persons for whom he is voting, marks out all the other names.

Wm. E. Eldred Home Scene of Wedding of Son

The home of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Eldred, 4380 Orchard ave., was the scene Tuesday afternoon of a charming garden wedding when their son, Robert Stuart Eldred, BM 1-c, and Miss Margaret Agnes McGuire of Oakland, Calif., were united in marriage. Rev. James F. Roberts of the Pt. Loma Methodist church officiated at the 5:30 o'clock ceremony. House decorations for the event included Shasta daisies and greens.

Attending the couple as best man and matron of honor were Lt. (jg) and Mrs. B. M. Gray.

Following the ceremony a dinner was served to the wedding party of 12.

The Eldred family formerly lived at Carlsbad. The groom graduated from the Oceanside High school. He has served for five years in the Navy and has recently returned from 20 months' overseas duty.

For the time being the couple plan to make their home at South Gate, Calif.
